Here are four questions we should all ask about our core beliefs if we truly want to bring peace and love to the world. The four questions are inclusive of all beliefs, even for those who are atheist or agnostic.

1. Does this belief contradict that “God’s” love is for everyone unconditionally? Note: This first question is NOT asking if you believe in God.
2. Does this belief call on you to do anything other than a loving act?
3. Does this belief exclude any of our brothers and sisters on the planet?
4. Does this belief ask us to do anything other than treat others as we would wish to be treated?
